Litigation attorney Ian Christy of Miller Nash Graham & Dunn LLP and Adam Bowen of DTI will discuss recent developments in the law of electronic discovery, including the impact of the December 2015 amendments to the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure. The program will also cover:

- Strategic considerations and practical tips for managing various stages of e-discovery in complex civil litigation - from preservation to production to discovery motions.
- Perspectives regarding the benefits of using an e-discovery vendor to assist with the e-discovery process.

The class is a must-attend for individuals interested in learning more about this rapidly evolving area of litigation. Ian is a litigation attorney and a specialist in e-discovery. He regularly works on complex e-discovery issues in a wide range of federal and state civil litigation and government investigation matters, helping to provide clients with practical and cost-effective e-discovery solutions. Adam is a solutions architect for DTI, a global legal process outsourcing company serving law firms and corporations around the globe. He is responsible for developing and implementing client-specific litigation support and electronic discovery solutions, including forensics and data collection, processing, hosting and managed review services.
